Tuesday, October 14. 1707.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 18.

Naples, September 20.

FOR 3 Days together, publick Illuminations have been made here, with Salvoes of Artillery in the Square before the great Church, in Honour of St. Januarius; and in Memory of the Deliverance of this City by his (suppos'd) Intercession in 1631, from the Flames of Mount Vesuvio; and Yesterday the Festival of that Saint was celebrated, and the People were shewn the accustom'd Miracle of the Liquefaction of his coagulated Blood. We find some Inconvenience here by the Interruption of Commerce with Apulia and Sicily, but we hope that in a little Time it will be remedied.

Rome, Sept. 24. On Sunday last, a Mass was celebrated in the Church of St. James belonging to the Spaniards; and by Order of King Philip Te Deum was sung there privately for the Birth of the Prince of Asturias: The Duke d'Uzeda Ambassador of Spain, and the Cardinals del Giudice and de la Tremouille assisted at it. This Week Couriers arriv'd from Spain, who proceeded on with Dispatches for Gaeta and Sicily. The Franchises formerly granted to the Cardinals and their Domesticks, are reduc'd to a certain fix'd Number.

Legborne, Sept. 20. On Sunday last arriv'd here a Felucca from Naples, after having deliver'd a Packet of Dispatches for King Charles to the Commanders in chief of the Confederate Fleet, who detach'd the next Day for Barcelona an English Man of War, on which the Prince della Ricchia embark'd with two Spanish Noblemen that came from Naples: 'Tis said they take this Voyage, to make complaint to King Charles of some Hardships that they think have been put upon them. We have receiv'd Advice, that Vice-Admiral Wassenaar is gone with his Squadron of Dutch Ships for Barcelona; and that the Fleet has detach'd another Squadron for Gaeta and for Naples, whether likewise some Transports are sent to be servicable to Count Taunin in his Enterprizes.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Oct. 18.

Francfort, Octob. 12. Cologne, October 14. On Wednesday last the Party Leader la Croix Summon'd this City to pay him 52000 Crowns Contribution, on pain of Military Execution; but our Magistrates refus'd to submit to it, and Preparations are made to give him a good Reception in Case he dare come to insult us. To that end Cannon are plac'd on our Ramparts, and Parties of our Garrison are sent out daily to scour the Country.

Audenard, October 15. The 13th the Troops of the Allies, that are appointed to Garrison in Brabant and in the Towns on the Maes, pass'd the Scheld at Grave, to March towards Aloft, whence they will proceed to Morrow towards Brussels. After Dinner he review'd the fine Regiment of Horse of the Marquis of Westerloo, which made a very good Appearance to his Satisfaction; and between 2 and 3 a Clock proceeded for Lier, (the Cannon firing at his Departure,) thence to continue his Journey to Germany.
